

Through the media, I have heard of a proposal the FCC may consider implementing, which would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. I am strongly opposed to any changes that would jeopardize the effectiveness of what Indiana has worked so diligently to put in place for the residents of this state.

I was skeptical of how effective the Indiana law would be, and have been thrilled that it has, in fact, reduced the annoying interferences in my home drastically. It is now an extremely rare occurrence to receive a telemarketing call, while previously it was not uncommon to receive five or more calls PER DAY!

I definitely think other citizens of the U.S. should benefit from no-call or similar laws, but am strictly opposed to anything that would negatively affect the results we have here in Indiana.

Thanks for your time and consideration,

Marleen K. Gift
